Kimberley Motley

Kimberley Motley is one of the world's most respected lawyers, working in one of the world's most complex legal systems. Her fight for victims of crime and injustice in Afghanistan has drawn international attention to the importance of upholding the rule of law, even in the most difficult of circumstances.

Hailed by entrepreneur Richard Branson as 'one of the most inspirational people in the world', the mum of three's life story and work have received extensive media coverage; they have been made into an award-winning documentary film called Motley's Law. It has not been an easy journey, however, and she has faced significant resistance and hostility – listen to Kimberly's TED Talk from 2014 on defending the rule of law.

Kimberley hold an honorary degree from The Open University and is the first and only Western litigator in Afghanistan.
